

Costa Rican electrical distribution box manufacturing companies

Article Overview

Serpimetal and Tico Electronics are key Costa Rican manufacturers of electrical enclosures and distribution boxes.

Key Manufacturers

Serpimetal is a Costa Rican contract manufacturer specializing in sheet metal fabrication for electronic equipment enclosures, electric control cabinets, telecommunication cabinets, battery cabinets, fire hose cabinets, and server racks. They also produce their own brand of electric enclosures, including control board cabinets, UL-certified wire ways, and junction boxes, meeting local electrical code regulations. Serpimetal emphasizes high-tech, controlled processes and certified raw materials to ensure quality and compliance with industry standards .

Tico Electronics focuses on complex electro-mechanical assemblies, including wire windings, cable harnesses, and motor assemblies. While their primary expertise is in contract manufacturing, they provide customized assembly solutions that can include electrical distribution components, benefiting from flexible production lines and quality certifications .

Anixter Costa Rica offers a range of industrial electrical enclosures suitable for extreme conditions, including NEMA-rated boxes (1, 3/3R, 4, 4X, 12), which are commonly used in electrical distribution and control applications
