

How much does a reel of 12-core optical cable weigh

Article Overview

A 12-core optical fiber cable on a standard wooden or polymer reel typically weighs between 200 kg and 400 kg, depending on cable type, length, and reel size.

Cable Weight Considerations

The total weight depends on several factors:

- Cable type and construction: A 12-core fiber optic cable usually has a diameter of 6–10 mm and a weight of approximately 50–120 kg per kilometer, depending on whether it is loose tube, tight-buffered, or armored .
- Cable length on the reel: Standard reels can hold 1 km to 4 km of optical fiber, with longer lengths increasing total weight .
- Reel material and size: Wooden reels (series K or P) are heavier than polypropylene reels (series S). A medium-sized wooden reel can weigh 50–150 kg empty, while polymer reels are lighter, around 20–50 kg .

Example Estimation

For a typical 12-core loose tube cable:

- Cable weight: ~80 kg/km
- Reel length: 2 km
- Reel weight: 100 kg (wooden) Total weight = $(80 \text{ kg/km} \times 2 \text{ km}) + 100 \text{ kg} = 260\text{...}$
